know that with those roads in the hands of the government, the problem of regulating the traffic would be speedily and perfectly solved. In Wilson's remarks, he had the case in his own hands, and should not conceal it. For one, would not stand in the way of the government's taking possession of the roads? The government might protect itself against the possibility of the roads being used for the purpose of carrying on a business which would be a burden on the government. WILD CURRENTS OF WATER

Conspire to Create a Freshet of Devastating Magnitude. A MIDWINTER SHOWER BATH. Northwestern Pennsylvania Fairly Flooded by Heavy Rains, and Melting Snow from the Mountains—Great Damage Done.

The Pennsylvania Floods. WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 5.—The river is still rising slowly, but it is believed that it has commenced falling at the head of the stream. The boom of West & Tenors and several million feet of new logs went down the river yesterday afternoon, and the Philadelphia & Reading bridge station in this city, and the tracks are covered both above and below the station. No trains have gone out on the Pine Creek or Rock Creek roads.

Another Busted Match. The police are advised of a road house racket which is rampant in the neighborhood of Leonard Billings, a native, recently working in the Omaha mills, had prepared to leave town yesterday, intending to take his wife with him to a Twelfth street apartment where he had become enamored. The woman, after the peculiar fashion of her kind, really liked Billings and was willing to marry him and abandon her unsatisfactory career.
